Breast Augmentation New York - The Procedure

Breast Augmentation procedure usually takes about 2 hours depending on the types of implants and techniques used. Through the breast tissue, a small incision is made and a soft silicone implant is introduced. Depending on your aesthetic preferences, as to the size and shape of your desired breasts, the surgeon estimates the exact amount of fluid to be used in each implant.

The entire procedure is performed in a state of the art, sterile, surgical environment by our top medical and cosmetic teams in the greater New York area.

Recovery from Breast Augmentation plastic surgery is relatively short. In most cases you will be released back home on the same day and after less than a week the tiny incisions will heal as well.

A Brief History of Breast Augmentation

Did you know that breast implants have been used since 1895 to enhance the size and shape of women's breasts?

Some parts of the world have been performing Breast Augmentation for decades. Beginning in the 1900's, treatment involved the injection of adipose tissues into the breasts. Unfortunately, this method was proven ineffective because the injected fat did not stay in place. Instead, it was absorbed into the body. This type of Breast Augmentation was abandoned about 20 years later for its poor and sometimes dangerous results.

The silicone and saline breast implants utilized today can be traced back to the early 1960s, when safer breast enlargement implants were introduced. Although the structure and design of those implants formed the base for the breast cosmetic revolution, today breast implants are much more durable, safe and deliver a much more natural sensation and look.

At our New York Breast Enlargement clinic we use the latest, state of the art implant technology to match your body and dream look.
